OCR for PaperVision® Capture Improves Business Efficiency

Digitech Systems Announces Affordable and Accurate Full-Text Optical Character (OCR) Recognition

Greenwood Village, CO - August 4, 2009 - Digitech Systems announced today that they have added significant enhancements to PaperVision Capture, including full-text OCR processing. PaperVision Capture allows businesses to design flexible processes to capture paper documents, convert them to an electronic format, and index them for secure storage, management and retrieval within an Enterprise Content Management (ECM) system.

OCR automatically processes image files, including paper documents converted to electronic format from a scanner or MFP, into indexed files that are searchable. PaperVision Capture offers organizations affordable access to OCR technology that is recognized for its speed, accuracy and cost-efficient processing.

Benefits of OCR with PaperVision Capture

- Convert scanned images: to Microsoft Word, XML, PDF or choose from more than thirty other formats
- Export full-text data: to PaperVision® Enterprise, ImageSilo®, another ECM system, or a wide variety of line-of-business applications
- Streamline searching for information: convert images to full-text data to be able to pinpoint search for a word or phrase

“We’re proud to add full-text OCR to the list of available options for PaperVision Capture customers. Full-text OCR extends this product’s flexibility to an even wider array of businesses and business initiatives. Best of all, it improves productivity for our customers at a very affordable price.” said HK Bain, Chief Executive Officer of Digitech Systems.
