

MEMBERS ONLY

They Say Membership Has Its Privileges ... and They're Right.

As a member of ARMA International, a world-renowned information management and governance association, you will have access to resources that will connect you to great ideas, great people, and a comprehensive collection of programs and publications designed to enhance your performance and make you an even more credible, valuable asset to your organization.

By joining ARMA International, you are making a substantial investment in your career – whether your business cards read information management, legal, IT, or any other part of the organization that has a stake in informational governance.

What can ARMA International do for you? For starters, it will help you:

Work Smarter, Not Harder

- Check out our online courses and web seminars for easy, hassle-free education. Even better, join us at the annual ARMA International Conference & Expo to see the latest technology in action. Whatever you're looking for in professional development, ARMA International has it!
- Information Management e-magazine is the leading source for learning about the key records and information management (RIM) issues. Contributed to by top professionals and thought leaders, it features insightful articles about the latest RIM trends, technologies, and best practices – and it's free to ARMA International members only.
- ARMA International's electronic newsletters and policy briefs connect you to information and education in the information management field by reporting on the top issues in the industry.

Network with Colleagues and Industry Leaders

- Identify your organization's pain points and learn about best practices to relieve them through face-to-face and online access to the industry's best and brightest professionals around the world, as well as expert colleagues at your local level.
- Engaging has never been easier with more than 120 local chapters (link), a variety of social networks (link), and various professional development opportunities.

Take Your Career to the Next Level

- Are you a leader? ARMA International is looking for someone like you to develop your career, grow into leadership roles, and take part in new professional opportunities. Go to www.arma.org to check out our volunteer openings and find all the great ways you can get involved!
- CareerLink, our online career search and résumé posting service keeps you on top of the latest job openings and in front of employers to ensure a good career fit and top compensation for your unique skill set.

Learn more or complete the easy online membership application at www.arma.org/join to start enjoying the benefits of being a member of ARMA International today!